Public Health Advisory: Healthcare Preparedness and Surveillance for FIFA Club World Cup Events (June 15th - July 13th) in New Jersey

Key Points:

1. Be Vigilant for Travel-Related and Unusual Illnesses: While no specific health threat exists for this event, with the expected influx of domestic and international visitors, healthcare providers should maintain heightened awareness for travel-related illnesses, potential outbreaks, and any unusual clinical presentations that could indicate exposure to immediately reportable biological agents.
2. Review Disease Reporting Procedures: Promptly report diseases to public health authorities and highlight any potential links to attendance at a Club World Cup event.
3. Ensure Preparedness: Review and update your facility's emergency response and preparedness plans, coordinate with state and local partners and maintain situational awareness.

NJHCC & NJSP Training Request Form

The NJHCC EM Team has established a greater working relationship with the New Jersey State Police (NJSP) Training Unit. We are seeking to better understand what kinds of training you and your teams are looking for, examples include but are not limited to: ICS 100, 200, 300, 400, HSEEP, etc.

If there is sufficient interest (10~ responses) in a specific training or several trainings, the NJHCC EM Team will work with the NJSP Training Unit to attempt to establish a regional training opportunity with a closed registration for NJHCC members.

Please note: A training request cannot always be approved due to logistical, staffing, timing, etc. challenges on the part of the facilitating agencies. With that in mind, we will make every effort to get the training request approved and on the facilitated.

UTMB and Moderna Study Demonstrates First-Ever mRNA Vaccine against Deadly Marburg Virus

(UTMB Health)

In a major step forward for pandemic preparedness and vaccine development, scientists at the University of Texas Medical Branch and Moderna have developed and tested a groundbreaking mRNA vaccine that provides full protection against the deadly Marburg virus and the closely related Ravn virus in a preclinical animal model.

“The fact that we achieved complete protection in all vaccinated animals is a major leap,” said Dr. Alexander Bukreyev, co-senior author of the study and professor at UTMB’s Department of Pathology and Center for Biodefense and Emerging Infectious Diseases.

“Moderna’s mRNA platform is proving to be very potent when targeting highly lethal pathogens,” said Dr. Andrea Carfi, at Moderna, who is the other co-senior author.

Two mRNA vaccines were designed to target both Marburg and Ravn viruses—two genetically distinct but equally deadly pathogens that cause severe human disease with high fatality rates. Notably, the vaccines proved effective even when animals were challenged with the heterologous virus.

The findings, recently published in Nature Communications arrive amid recent Marburg outbreaks in Tanzania, Equatorial Guinea, and Ghana, underscoring the urgent global need for a safe, effective vaccine.
